

WHAT'S NEW IN THE KUKUI CENTER

They say that “necessity is the mother of invention” and nonprofits throughout the country are pivoting and adapting to our new post-covid reality. The demands of Covid will continue, although in different forms, requiring evolution, creativity and growth in how to meet them.

Increasingly, the Kukui Center programs have expanded from the offices inside our building to outdoor spaces. Even before Covid, we have provided an outdoor venue to provide additional services.

Spearheaded on a rotating basis, the Kukui Center agencies have collaboratively set up shop in the parking lot to provide food, health aids, baby supplies, legal and housing information and other services and information connected to the 7 programs within the center.

We have some exciting plans for 2022. As families with children under 5 years old are given the opportunity to have their children vaccinated in the near future, Healthy Mothers Healthy Babies has suggested holding a “Kukui Center Health Fair” organized around providing vaccines for our youngest keiki. Joining them will be other programs which support children and families.

Similarly in May, Leadership in Disabilities and Achievement of Hawaii will be setting up a screening clinic in the parking lot and our other KC programs will participate as well. Their intent is to screen keiki 0-5 years of age in the community for vision, hearing and developmental disabilities.

We want the Kukui Center to be a true family resource, particularly for our neighbors. By creating these opportunities, we recognize that these are demanding and stressful times for parents and the easier and more accessible the help, the more likely it is for them to take advantage of what is being offered for their children. It is a real win/win for everyone.

Stay tuned for information about the Kukui Center Health Fairs.

COALITION OF HAWAII

A mother wakes up in the middle of the night, sweating with a fever and weak. Unsure what to do or who to call- is it an infection? Do I need to make a trip to the ER right now? Do I really need that second COVID-19 shot? I still don't feel comfortable with...

As parents, there are so many issues that come up randomly and sometimes you just need quick reassurance without making an appointment. Our families have been asking for a 24-hr hotline and Healthy Mothers Healthy Babies Coalition of Hawaii (HMHB) answered the call.

We are excited to announce the launch of our Mana Mama 24-Hour Telehealth! The Mana Mama 24-hour Telehealth Platform provides breastfeeding support, prenatal and postnatal support, mental health support, COVID-19 support and more to anyone, anywhere, anytime. This service allows our team to address pregnancy/parenting/lactation related questions immediately and schedule an appointment with a clinical staff-member as soon as the next business day either in our office or in the comfort of their own home. Or we may just do a telehealth call with the client right then in the moment they message in.

Our goal is to support expectant parents and be an extension for healthcare providers, hospitals and our community with this invaluable resource. The line is staffed with our clinical team of Nurses, Midwives, Lactation Consultants, and Nurse Practitioners.

We are committed to ensuring women and families receive easy access to resources and information before, during and after pregnancy. This platform allows us to continue our mission to support Hawaii's families across the island chain and is another way that HMHB is breaking down barriers to care.

EQUITY IN DIGITAL LITERACY. Hawaii Literacy's programs' Adult Literacy, English Language Learner, and Family

Literacy Libraries are all beginning to resume in-person learning/tutoring and our Bookmobile team is excited to begin visiting weekly sites again.

However, these past two years, the pandemic has highlighted the importance of digital literacy skills and underscored the gulf between people who can leverage technology and those that can't – it's an equity issue. Digital literacy is literacy. Access to technology and the opportunity to read, write, and develop digital skills are critical for academic success for adults and students.

To address this issue, Hawaii Literacy joined the Workforce Resiliency Initiative (WRI) to reach the goal of connecting 100,000 people to opportunities to develop digital skills.

Hawaii Literacy Bookmobile

This partnership with existing programs are to help the 1 in 6 adults in Hawaii who struggle to read and write to reach a basic level of digital and traditional literacy to ensure they can participate in the initiative despite having lower literacy skills than necessary to use the standard curriculum for WRI.

We've created a Digital Literacy program focusing on connectivity, culturally informed digital skills training, and access to technology that can scale to public housing sites and other organizations that serve low literacy adults. We recently completed the first series of ongoing classes that help residents at the public housing communities of Mayor Wright Homes and the Towers at Kuhio Park and will increase outreach to recruit and support more residents. However, any adults from low-income communities are welcome to attend.

Aloha. As we head into Spring, HIJC is bustling with new talent and energy as we welcome new faces both virtually and in person to our office. Here is what's new.

Tiffany Dumas is our most recent hire and her role will be helping clients with their social security application. We are so happy to welcome Tiffany and glad that her strong commitment to public interest law and empathy and compassion have led her to join our Legal Aid team.

We also will soon be welcoming another team member to work on outreach efforts within our COFA community. Her work will be connected to our services in assisting clients who are citizens of COFA countries and would like replacement I-94s and/or an employment authorization document (EAD). The EAD can be a very useful immigration document because it is federally authorized picture identification and can be used for documentation purposes in many situations including with employers, the Social Security Administration, at the DMV, and to fly domestically.

She also will be helping on education about Medicaid eligibility and applications.

Meanwhile, we have no less than 6 students actively helping on immigration cases for youth and families. While we are still conducting most of our work remotely, you may see them at times in and around the office. We truly appreciate their desire to work and learn with us.

CYBERBULLYING AND CHILDREN'S SAFETY. If the word "bullying" makes you think of one child picking on another on the playground, it is time to update your image of how students bully. While face-to-face harassment still exists, new ways of bullying have emerged that can be harmful to children. With easy access to cell phones, instant messaging, mobile devices, social networking websites, and other technologies, bullying has found its way into cyberspace. Because of its high prevalence, it is important that parents learn what cyberbullying is and how to respond.

What is cyberbullying? It is the use of technology to harass, hurt, embarrass, humiliate, and intimidate another person. It can be done anonymously or not. Today's children are the first generation to use technology to bully each other. Today's parents need to learn how to address this issue with their children. These steps are a guide for exploring this topic with your child:

1. Have the "cyberbullying" conversation. What it is, what it will look like for your child while online or if they have a cell phone and using social media.
2. Set cyber safety rules, such as, don't do or say anything online that you wouldn't do or say in person. Don't reveal anything that you wouldn't tell a stranger.
3. Know what your children are doing online. As a parent, you have a responsibility to know what your children are doing online. Establish rules about your access to their cell phones, text history, social networking sites and other computer accounts. Keep your child's computer in an open spot.

Technology offers children many advantages and benefits and, occasionally some risks. The solution is not to remove their access to technology but rather to plan ahead to ensure your child is safe. By being aware of your child's cyber activities, learning about new technologies, and adding to "cyber parenting" to your list of talents.

Promise of Hawai'i

2022: WHAT'S ON THE HORIZON? Will this pandemic ever end?!? Many of us have asked this question out of frustration as hopes of "returning to normal" get further and further away. The pandemic has brought hardship for many, including families struggling with housing insecurity. For the past two years, we've rapidly increased our availability of services to meet the needs of these families. We saw a 450% increase in individuals served compared to 2018 - 2019. An increase in federal relief dollars has helped us support this increase. Unfortunately, these dollars are set to expire soon and our waitlist for services continues to grow.

Low-income families are likely to face extra economic hardships in 2022 with the surge of COVID in our community alongside a reduction in child care tax credits and a lack of enhanced unemployment benefits that helped them stabilize over the past two years.

Despite this, we will continue to support families. We will continue to try and find new ways to shelter and rehouse those in need. We'll continue to search for a building to call our long-term home - our Ohana Navigation Center. We'll continue to seek new funding to help provide rental assistance and case management services. We'll continue to collaborate with the community to support one another. We know times are tough. We are all feeling it. We will continue to be here.

Kids Hurt Too Hawaii
Healing Young Hearts

Ethan, 12, Current KHTH Participant

What's new at Kids Hurt Too? We're opening up to in-person services again! We are excited to welcome back in-person group services to children and families, while still resuming online services to those who want it. To ensure the safety of everyone, we have set strict health protocols including a decrease in group size, and adding more groups to safely accommodate the demand for services. Groups will take place during the evenings, and occasionally during the day. One of our child participants, Ethan (pictured), told our staff that he likes in-person services because "you can be around people who have been through what you have been through so they understand."

What else is new at Kids Hurt Too? We are starting a new school-based program! With Nanaikaipono Elementary being the first school, we will hold support services after school to assist children and parents struggling with grief. The program is called Kahua 'O Mali'o, meaning 'Place of Light and Comfort.' It consists of talking story, practicing open communication, crafts and play for expressing grief, calming breathing techniques, and more. Parents will receive informational sessions on topics such as how children grieve, impact of change on behavior, open communication for healthy grief, and more. We hope that by expanding our services to schools, we will reach more children and families that are unable to make the commute to our usual meeting place in the Kukui Center.

HALE KIPA

Spring is a time of exciting, new beginnings, and Spring has definitely sprung at Hale Kipa. First and foremost, the addition of our new president and CEO, Venus Rosete-Medeiros. Venus comes to Hale Kipa with over 35 years of experience serving youth and families in Hawai'i and is dedicated to family, community, and the Hawaiian culture. We also have a new Program Director, Dr. Dianne Bowen-Coleman, who comes to us from her work with Ho'ola Na Pua and most recently Project Vision Hawai'i.

We are also happy to report that our Independent Living Program was approved to continue our work with foster youth and former foster youth on O'ahu. To this end, we have added some new faces to the team, as well as some new roles. Over the winter, our case management staff increased by 3.

We are joined by, Tennyson "Tj" Tom, III, Jeffrey Aganos, and Frances Harimoto, who in a short time have become vital members of the ILP team. Tj also serves as our brand-new Intake Specialist, working to expedite services for young persons referred to our program. In new roles, Maia Tjarks will transition to our new Housing Navigator, as Brooke Ward grows into Housing Manager, overseeing housing resource development and programming. Soon we hope to add a new Peer Engagement Specialist and Resident Advisor (and Respite RA) to the team as well.

So many exciting things popping up. Please see our website at halekipa.org to learn more and maybe join our team!

WELINA MAI I KA 'OHANA

Welcome to the Family

Judy Lind, Executive Director-Kukui Children's Foundation, Kapiolani Barber, Executive Director-Nanakuli Housing Corporation & Brooke Ward, Housing Manager-Hale Kipa accepting housing donations from Kapiolani Barber

Nanakuli Housing Corporation (NHC) is a 501c3 and HUD approved housing counseling agency founded in 1989 by the late Paige Kawelo Barber. All that NHC has accomplished flows from the vision of this extraordinary woman. Paige was a woman with the ability to dream to a destination where all Hawai'i's 'ohana could enjoy the security and prosperity that comes with owning a home. Paige was raised on the Nanakuli Homestead and had a heart for her community. Her desire to kokua her people was a powerful motivator and resulted in the creation of programs on financial literacy, homeownership, self help home repair and home replacement. Due to Paige Barber's vision, more than 6,000 native 'ohana have been helped by Nanakuli Housing Corporation.

Today, NHC is being guided by her daughter, Kapiolani Barber-Executive Director. "Aloha Kakou. NHC appreciates the opportunity to be able to donate much needed household goods to Hale Kipa. Each day I look forward to working in support of our vision, that every 'Ohana in Hawai'i will have their own home. The work has encountered many challenges, but the rewards have been plentiful. I am inspired, each and every day to work on behalf of Hawai'i's 'Ohana."
